

Goodbody Asset Management

Goodbody Dividend Income Balanced Fund - GDI 4

- Dividend equities and fixed income holdings drive performance
- Downside protection (index put options) remains a modest drag

ESMA SRRI Risk Rating

Fund performance

The Fund delivered strong performance in the month driven by both its underlying dividend paying equities and its investment grade fixed income holdings. Global Respiratory device company ResMed (+14%) and Carlisle Companies, a leading US building products manufacturer (+12%), were the best performing equity holdings. Fixed income holdings also positively contributed to return in March, with the Fund's corporate bonds marginally outperforming government debt. Market expectations continue to point to a first rate cut from the ECB in June. The Fund's downside protection strategy (index put options) continues to be a modest drag mainly due to strong equity market performance.

Market commentary

March was another strong month for global equities with the MSCI World rising by 3.4% in euro terms, bringing its total return for Q1/24 to 11.3%. There was a change in equity style leadership in March. Traditionally “value” orientated sectors outperformed with Energy and Materials stocks leading the market higher. Energy stocks specifically benefitted from the move higher in oil prices. Bond markets also posted positive returns in March. USD and Euro investment grade bond markets returned 0.9% and 1.1% respectively. Despite some higher-than-expected inflation readings in the US, the Fed, via its “Dot Plot”, continued to guide for three interest rate cuts in 2024. Meanwhile, the ECB confirmed that it needs to see further disinflationary data before cutting interest rates. Again, it noted the importance of the wage inflation data that is due to be released before its meeting in June.
