Fund performance

Positive earnings revisions supported the strong global equity market performance in October. Positive earnings surprises also underpinned the strong absolute and relative performance of the Fund. Microsoft (+17%) and Google (+11%) continue to display their incredible growth at scale, and Nike (+15%) rebounded following recent supply chain concerns. Despite strong performance at the index level, current inflation and supply chain concerns continue to create opportunities. We were able to use these near-term concerns to acquire a holding in Sherwin Williams, a dominant manufacturer of paint and industrial coatings. Sherwin Williams is only the third new business we have bought in 2021.

Why consider the Goodbody Global Leaders Fund?

1. More profitable today

Invest in a select group of dominant companies with sustained leadership positions. These are among the most profitable companies in their industry.

2. More profitable tomorrow

The fund invests in companies with some of the best track records of successful innovation. Such innovation sustains their leadership positions. These leaders of today can also be the most profitable companies of tomorrow.

3. Investment opportunity

Global Leaders present a compelling risk/reward opportunity as they consistently widen the gap with competitors. This can lead to significant share price outperformance over time.

Warning: Past performance is not a reliable guide to future performance.

Market commentary

Global equity markets rebounded in October with the MSCI World ending the month 5.8% higher in Euro terms. Stocks benefitted from a solid earnings season, with 80% of S&P 500 companies which have reported so far beating EPS expectations. From a style perspective, Quality and Growth outperformed Value over the month. It was a volatile month for global bond markets. While longer dated bond yields increased by c.0.1% in both Europe and the US, the most significant moves were in shorter dated government bonds. Over the month, the market moved from pricing in just one interest rate hike by the Fed in 2022 to pricing in more than two hikes. This more aggressive pricing came on the back of the continuation in elevated inflation readings and hawkish commentary from central banks, most notably the Bank of England and the Fed. While US CPI was unchanged during the month at 5.4%, energy prices continued to rise. The European energy market experienced some of the most drastic moves with gas prices rising by 60% in a week.
