Goodbody Global Leaders Fund

- Technology leads Global Leaders higher in May
- Volatility created opportunity for new additions

ESMA SRRRI Risk Rating

Fund Commentary

Technology once again led the market higher in May, with the sector up over 15% in the month. Similarly, top contributors to return for the Fund were the software company ServiceNow (+42%), semiconductor manufacturer OnSemi (+20%) and hardware leader Apple (+16%). Volatility in the month allowed us to add to some existing holdings, as well as starting a number of new positions, ranging from leaders in data centre cooling & skilled labour, to companies in the AI semiconductor & networking value chains. These changes were funded by completing the exit of a number of long held, strong performers for the Fund. We believe further episodes of short-term volatility will allow us to continue adding to attractive long-term Leaders.

Market Commentary

May was another positive month for risk assets, with the MSCI World gaining 5.1% in euro terms, as investors focused on strong earnings and continued momentum in AI-related investment. Leadership remained concentrated in AI-related technology and the data centre build-out, with semiconductor stocks particularly strong: the PHLX Semiconductor Index (SOX) rose c.22% over the month. Commodity-linked and defensive sectors were weaker by contrast, as oil prices fell from April's highs, although they remained elevated. Bond markets were more mixed, with yields volatile through the month. Driven by a combination of resilient economic data and a pickup in inflation, the US 10-year yield rose to its highest level in nearly 18 months before declining into month-end. By month-end, markets had priced approximately one hike by the Fed and two by the ECB by year-end.
